NOTES OF THE WEEK, Bark D. C. Murray sails to-morrow for San

Steamer Kilanea will make a circuit trip around Hawaii next week, after which she will be THE FIRST WHALES.-The whaleship Cornellu-

Howland arrived on Wednesday last from a cruise, with 180 bbls. of sperm; sluce then the James Allen and Onward have arrived.

Mr. Stillwell, whose departure we noted last week, did not leave, as we were incorrectly informed, without a Custom House passport, but he did leave without a passport from his creditors.

THE NEXT MAIL may be brought either by the schooner Bonanza, which Mr. J. H. Black has recently bought in Sau Francisco, or by the yacht Azeline belonging to Mr. M. R. Roberts, owner of the bark Mary Belle Roberts, Grace Roberts and other vessels on this coast. Both of these schooners were to leave for Hopolulu as soon as definite news arrives from Washington with regard to the Treaty, and may be expected next week.

Doctor R. M'Kibbla, Senior died at his resideuce in this city on Saturday afternoon last, at the ripe age of eighty years. He bad lived here many years, and was beloved by all who knew him-a ruly good man, and a devoted smeere Christian

He died as he had lived, full of hope and faith. "The good man's time to die at length arrives; Burdened with many years and ripe for death; Calmly he waits the measurer's approach, To beer him to his final resting place."

WAS IT THE VARUNA?-We clip the following item from a San Francisco paper :

"On the last passage of the Granada from this port to Honolulu a wreck was discovered about 450 miles northeast of Honolulu. The vessel was apparently broken in two. One of the Granada's officers he recognized the wreck as the sci Varuus, lost in a gale, with a load of sugar from Honolulu for this port."

It is possible that the officer was right in his conture, but we are inclined to doubt. The Varum left here in January, 1875, in a gale.

THANKS. - The thanks of this community are due to George F. Hopper Esq. Superintendent of the Foreign Department, New York Post Office, who has several times supplied at his own expense, missing postage stamps for letters passing through his hands, and destined for these Islands, which but for this act of disinterested charity, would have been mail twenty-one letters came to which he had affix-ed stamps, and by the previous mail therewere at least ten. Mr. Hopper is a brother to J. A. Hopper Eag. of this city.

Esq. of this city. ERRATUM .- In the published address to His Majes ty, issued in our Supplement of last week, there occurs a misprint, or omission of the words, " which while necessary for the industrial interests of the country" in the paragraph commencing-"what action indeed!" which should continue to read thus " why we have procured a few Chinese male laborers, and we are expecting a few hundred more, which while necessary for the industrial interests of the country will add to the present disproportion" etc., and it so reads in the manuscript copy presented His Majesty. The name of E. Preston, omitted in the published Hist of names is subscribed to the address laid before His Majesty.

OLD SERVANTS OF GOVERNMENT. -Mr. Brick wood. the Post Master General, has been for twenty-one years, come the 18th of the month, in the employ of the Hawalian Government, and during all that long period he has not been outside of the city of Honolulu. Such assidulty is rare in Hawaii nel among govenment employees. Mr. Jarrett, the Clerk of the Foreign Office, is another example of long and faithful service, he having been in the Government employ ever since 1845. It would not be an ungraceful act on the part of the coming Legislature to pension off these two gentlemen, and allow them to retire from active service and spend the remain-der of their days in that leisure to which their long STEAMER MIKADO.-This boat arrived off the bar bor about four o'clock on Thursday morning, the 9th mst. from San Francisco with the mails. There being a passenger on board sick with the measels she was not allowed to come inside for several hours. About nine o'clock she was allowed to enter the harbor, and land and ship freight under such restrictions as the Board of Health deemed necessary to the public welfare, while the infected party was placed in a quarantine. The steamer brought over thirty passengers for this piace, who were allowed to land after some delay, but the through passengers were not permitted to come ashore. She got away between seven and eight o'clock P. M. with a fair amount of freight for the Colonies.

EDWARD S. BAKER.-This gentleman, who came down on the steamer Mikado, is the special correspondent of The Resources of Colifornia, -a monthly devoted to the agricultural, mining, commercial, and other interests of the State. From a brief inspection of the number for February, handed us by Mr. Baker we concluded that It is conducted with ability and cuterprise, and furnishes a better idea of the vast and varied capabilities of the country than anything else printed. Mr. Baker will also correspood during his stay here with the S. F. Chronicks and the N. Y. Christian Weekly. He expresses himself as favorably disappointed in what he has thus far seen of Hawali, and we trust that his first favorable impressions will be endorsed by his subsequent re-reck caught in the harbor, and brought to our office a small fish which appears to be a stranger in these waters, for no one, native or foreign, has yet been able to identify it. In length it is about fou inches, and its body and fine are beautifully marked with black spots and patches. But the most singular festure about it is a broad, winglike ventral fin, just under the gills.

-Speaking on this subject reminds us of another species of fish sometimes caught here and sold in the market, called by the natives Publi. It is an apparent illustration of the manner in which a change of circumstances will after the forms of animal life of circumstances will alter the forms of animal life.

The fish is flat and awims horizontally in the water, and its eye is on the lower side of the head. On the upper side is a sightless and imperient eye, which was however undoubtedly good and services bits a some distant period, under other circumstances. There is something about the onesided appearance of the mouth which leads to the impression that the fish at one time awam in a perpendicular position.

What son of Science will investigate these things? European Correspondence-No. 9.

LAKE LUCERNE, SWITZERLAND. JAN. 1876. DEAR GARRITE :- I cannot get away from Lake Lucerne yet. It was there I really began to see beautiful Switzerland, and I am still lingering in mind on the Rigi, though actually far away from it. No wonder the Swiss are the most homesick people to the world when absent from the land of their birth. After only a few weeks' visit in their country, I shall wish I might spend every summer here. I know peo. ple who do that, and never care to go elsewhere on the continent. The English lady with the two boys whom we met at our hotel on the Rigi, is one of them. It was here I first saw the " Swiss cottages" that look as if only enlarged from the drawing books that school children are so familiar with. Here I roamed from morning till night to find new delights at every point. Here I had the pleasure of receiving and an swering my first Island letters. Here I attended two quiet Sanday services in the Kalthad parlor, and here, as the old game says, I must break through.

We went up to Kaltbad from Vitznau on the lake, by the frightful railway. I had my wish and returned to the lake on foot, a walk through pleasant fields, and tempting orchards. It is charming to travel when you do not need to fix your times, and you may plan and unplan all you like without turning everything topsy turvey. So the happy thought struck us on our walk down the mountain that it would be nicer to spend our night at some other place than Lucerne, where we had already

Accordingly, we made a pleasant trip to Bruppen where I again had a window that looked out on the lake. I took a cup of coffee at our late dinner, and if I romanced through my present letter over the beauties of that moonlit lake as I did that sleepless night, I am sure somebody would wish coffee had never been invented-to keep people awake.

The afternoon sail was lovely, or rather the shore views were. Autumn was just beginning to scatter gold and crimson among the trees; the stately firs stood sombre above the splendors beneath; picturesque villages nestled up against this variegated background, in unsuspected bays and curves, behind the shelter of fine, rugged promontories ; chateaux peeped out here and there, and new mountains reared their heads on the distant horizon, and again and again one was led to excluim, " This is perfect!" The sunset gold gave place to the moonlight's silver; the waves danced and sparkled ; the stars glowed in a blue sky ; gay parties rowed, singing, about the lake, their merry talk and laughter sounding up to my window, and I sat watching, and wishing I, too, was out in it all. In the morning, we returned by boat as we came and approached Lucerne again to take our good bye of her towers, her river, her bridges, and flud our boat for a place with a jaw-breaking name, where we should take diligence for a half day's ride. The boaon to which we changed had to pass through a bridged strait shortly before landing us. What was my surprise to see, on our approach, s portion of the bridge rise up into the air. It no doubt rested securely on its hinges and supports; but, notwithstanding my confidence in Swiss engineering, I confess to some conjectures as to what would happen if that trap door should come banging down on us. I had considerable curiosity to see a diligence with its various compartments. There were three or four on the route that day, and several "supplementary carriages," the latter much resembling shabby cov. ered buggies, for all the fine sounding name.

they please, but all must stand aside at the last to let the diligence go rushing by, first into town. Our ride was over the Brunig pass, to Brienz, and we had some beautiful scenery. I did not care to walk, as many were doing, but finally the ferns tempted me out. At Brienz we accommodated our plan to the whim of the moment, and I got the unexpected treat of an evening at Glessbach falls, which lay right on our route. I have seen, in a megaloscope at Honolulu, a beautiful illuminated photograph of the falls as they are lighted at night, which represents the show quite

The falls are quite pretty at any time, and I ad-

In the morning I climbed up by a good path to the top of the five eascades, went behind the bridges, admired the views, and regretted that we had so short a time to spend there. The hotel is excellent, and well patronized. It con_ sists of two large buildings under one management, connected by a long, covered passage. The woodbine ran all over corridor and arbors, its scarlet mingling with the deep, unchanging green of the ivy.

This was on lake Brienz, nearly a day's journey from Lucerne, and was an aside on our way to Inter-There I saw lace making and wood carving going on according to the established notions. The lace maker was a young girl in a pretty pavilion by the wayside,—the wood carver was a boy farther up the path to the falls.

I stopped short in my walk at a huge, ugly, black snail, moving across the path. My former encounter with the nettles made me a little cautious in poking at this animal, but I soon gave over fears, and stooped to examine him. "Ugly 1" He was a most heantful creature. His brown black body shone like satin, his back was velvet, his head ribbed and striped in a pattern a silk weaver would do well to imitate in his textures, if he could.

He was about five inches long, but when I meddled he was about he incuss long, but was a I medical too much, he saddonly contracted to the length of one inch, and rolled away down hill, gathering earth and sand on his moist body as he went, till you would not have known him from a pebble in the road. I have seen these slugs since, but he was my first friend and I shall remember him as long as I do the pretty Geisebach with its five falls, and fairy illuminations. The path from the falls to the steamer landing on Lake Briens winds among charming woods, giving glimpses at times here and there of the falls, and brings one in fitteen minutes to the shore. Here we found a party of four or five Swiss in their own pic-found a party of four or five Swiss in their own pic-turesque dress, singing national songs in the strange mountain yudelling. The women had good voices, and managed the queer transitions from classito head tones with more skill than the men and boys we had heard before. It takes a great amount of lung power to execute this kind of singing, and I have often been surprised to bear the singers shouting away in the midst of steep climbing in rare air, where most peo-ple would have hardly breath enough to get them over the ground, not to speak of the extra exertion of singing at the top (and the bottom, too), of the voice. I have heard Hawaiian children do something that sounds like an inferior sort of yodelling. This island reproduction is a prolonged cry consisting of an alreproduction is a prolonged cry consisting of an al-ternation on two or three notes only, from ebest to medium, and is somewhat common about the streets of a native village.

The goet-beeds who entertain themselves with this kind of singing, are active little chaps, as they have to follow their lively flock about from erag to orag; and they make good guides and porters. They take a bug and coat from a sturdy man in addition to all the wraps and traps a lady thinks necessary on a mountain climb, and trip away with the load as lightly as though they were the year chapsel themselves. ar though they were the very channels themselves.

We took steamer from Gei, bach to the rallway station not far from Interiaken, and there we climbed into the topmost compartment of the cars. It was like riding on the outside of an omnibus or street car, I should think, only there was a roof over our heads. In time weather it is a delightful place to travel in.

But it was called too demonstrate to suit the two or But it was quits too democratic to suit the two or three English parties who seemed to have made a mis-take in getting up there, as their preference was evi-dently for the close compartments of their own railway carriages.

I had not observed on the boat that they made any remarks about the leveling system of steamer travel, where there are no divisions to hide the extraordinary where there are no divisions to hide the extraordinary tourist from his ordinary fellow tourist. But they could speak of hardly anything else on the train—"These horrid cars! No compartments, Who ever heard of such a thing? So enery? Why didn't we stay down stairs? Can't we get down now?" do. I prefer open cars, particularly for ladies traveling alone, and zo, I am happy to say, do many of my English friends.

The United States Supreme Court this morning delivered an opinion in the case of the United States on the relation of Morse et al. vs. Union Pacific Railroad Company, affirming the decision of the United States Circuit Court for Iowa. This settles the question for all time to come, fixing the terminus of the Union Pacific Railroad at Council Bluffs, Iowa.

The Committee on Foreign Affairs examined to-day James A. Lyon, the original proprietor of the Moni-to, from which the Buma mine was made. Mr-Lyon's testimony was not concluded at the adjour-ment. He produced a letter from ex-Senator Stewart, written before the shares of the Emma mine were put on the London market, in which the Emma mine or characterized as a worked-out mine. A letter was also produced from Mr. Park, who said he was for making something out of the mine irrespective of what was in it. Mr. Lyon also testified that Stewart had offered $20,000 to Senator Morton if he would secure the removal of Chief Justice McKean, of Utah, who, it was charged was interested in mining cases which he was called to pass upon judicially. It does not appear that Senator Morton over accepted the offer.

HUNT'S REMEDY.

THIS REMEDY WAS ORIGINALLY PRE-SCHIRED by an eminent physician for a case of Dropsy in Mrs. Hunt's family. John Hont, aged about 45, of a stout and plethoric habit, was selbed with a sudden attack of geogral dropsy, which in a few days threatned his life. The ordinary remedies had all proved inefficacious, and under their use the patient was fast falling into an alarming state. The dropsy was general and extensive, legs swelled to an enormous site and the water increasing rapidly. He was entirely unable to life down in bed, and was forced to remain night and day in a sitting posture. This state of things continued until by the advice of the playsician alioded to, the present remedy was tried. In consequence of its peculiar nature it was necessary to prepare it with great care, and in order to insure this it was letreated to the family of Mr. Hunt to procure and compound it.

pare it with great care, and in order to insure this it was intrusted to the family of Mr. Hunt to procure and compound it.

The remedy was administered, and almost from the moment of its reception a decided improvement became manifest. The kidneys were immediately affected and roused to action; the swelling of the legs rapidly subsided, the lungs were freed and resumed their healthy and agreeable action; the field of limbs presumed its elasticity, caking "remaining, and he was rapidly convisesing when unfortunately, prompted by this rapid improvement, he gave up the remedy for a short time.

It was unfortunate, for the curstive process was arrested, the kidneys flagged in their scotion, again becoming torpid, the water increased with frightful rapidity and he soon again found himself in a very alarming state. The remedy was again had recontres to, and by its persevering use the disease was a second time subdued. But this was a most aggravated and severe case, and it took all the virtues of the Beanedy, combined with care and time, to eradicate the affects of the disease. But through a persevering use of it a permanent cure was effected, and he resumed his active out-of-door occupation, within a short time, a well muo.
